Illinois Residents Affected by Liver Disease

Cindy C.

Cindy advocates to raise awareness about pediatric liver diseases. At eight-months-old, her son developed liver cirrhosis and needed a liver transplant. Despite receiving a transplant, he remains in the hospital with complications.

Anne D.

Anne advocates to raise awareness about the importance of liver health and the advancements in liver transplant. After being unexpectedly diagnosed with end-stage liver disease, Anne was told she needed a liver transplant. Being an O+blood type made it difficult for her to match with a deceased donor. Thankfully, her daughter Katie stepped up to be her living liver donor.

Jeffrey S.

Jeff advocates for increased federal funding for liver disease research. In 1971, he received a blood transfusion at six-months-old. In 2006, he was diagnosed with hepatitis C which progressed to liver cirrhosis in 2011. Thanks to advancements in liver disease research Jeff is now cured of hep C.
